ITALIAN POETRY

PRAYER TO POETRY

THE BOOK

With the second title of the series, we rediscover Antonia Pozzi, a poet and photographer from Milan who died when she was only twenty-six. From the vulnerable and at the same time passionate soul, she sought comfort in her fragility and personal turmoil, burdened by the complex historical period in which she lived, in the splendid verses which filled so many previously unpublished notebooks. Her poetry is characterized by profound intensity, great sensitivity and a passionate love for nature.

Series Magnificent verses

Every poem contains, in the folds of its verses, images capable of dilating the thought. The challenge is to find, among the poems of all time, those with the most hidden folds to entrust them to the eye of those who can imagine with their hands. Thus are the visions that give birth to the books of this series.
