

GROWING UP WITH ANGELS AND IMAGINATION
THROUGH POETRY

ALONE, I CANNOT BE

THE BOOK

In a small town in the heart of New England, a little girl named Emily writes poems on tiny sheets, hiding them in the drawer of her desk. Emily speaks of flowers, plants, animals. But there are other creatures in her room, too. Creatures that most of the people do not know, because no one except Emily can see them: they are angels, come from who knows where, and they leave around the house messages that only she can decipher. Ever since they came, they never left, and so one day Emily began to write about them.

THE AUTHORS

EMILY DICKINSON, poem.

SONIA LUCE POSSENTINI, illustrations.

Edited by TERESA PORCELLA.

Bound and illustrated volume

32 pages

Format 23 x 34 cm

From 6 years

€ 17,90

Isbn 978-88-6945-058-7

Series Classic poems

A new series created to tell children, with texts and illustrations, the most beautiful poems of world literature.