FA DA SÈ

NENÈ DOES IT BY HIMSELF with water

THE BOOK

“Help me to do it by myself”. This Montessori input leads us through the new Carthusia “Montessori at home” series conceived and developed by Ruggero Poi, a Montessori trainer, in which “Nenè does it by himself with water” is the first title.

The book is full of pages of discovery and knowledge in which children deal with the theme of water, understood through body perception and the experiences of balance and games. Here the basic Montessori principles of autonomy and getting involved are revised through the everyday gestures that children perform first at home and then at school.

Nenè's is a simple story which shows the independence gained and shared through his small and curious actions, along with the pleasure of having tried and the satisfaction of succeeding.

Series: Montessori at home

A series inspired by the Montessori principles through pages conceived not only for the youngest but also for their parents. In this way, children can continue at home what they begin to discover at the “House of children”.
